WITH THE IMMORTALS.

Creatures That Seem Never to Die From Old Age.

Wandering unconcernedly in the field of view of any high power microscope there may be seen an animal which has probably been living continuously ever since life first appeared on the earth and which has certainly never lost an ancestor by death. The creature is transparent and resembles a drop of slightly more viscous fluid in the thin film of water in which it is confined. Amoeba is the name by which it is known to science. Splash a drop of ink on paper, and you will have an idea of its form at any one moment, but its form is never the same. Even as you watch it its shape, which had a resemblance to Ireland as it appears on the map, changes. The headlands at the southwest corner are becoming more and more prominent till now they are like the fingers of an outstretched hand, which called palisades rapidly shrinking. The whole creature is flowing rather than creeping toward a small chain of bacteria, which presently it devours. There is no mouth through which they are ingested. They are simply engulfed as the palisades of water may be merged into a larger. In an hour or two they will have been digested—burned off as fuel to supply the activities of their destroyer.

Occasionally the amoeba undergoes changes of form amoeba may be seen to be developing a "waist," which grows smaller and narrower until it snaps, and instead of one large animal we have two small ones, which, without even a momentary pause, continue the search for food till, in a few hours, each is full sized and ready to divide again.

But what has become of the original amoeba? In the absence of anything which could be called palisades we cannot declare him dead. It must be said that he is still living as the two new amoebae. Now, this splitting into two being the only mode of reproduction of the race, it follows that all the previous parent amoebae from which our present two are descended are still living. Of course thousands of the animalcules are destroyed every day by natural foes, but it must be remembered that these unfortunate cannot by the nature of things leave any children and so will never be ancestors, and that so long as any one amoeba is living none of his direct ancestry is dead.

The conclusion has forced itself upon biologists that death is no part of the life scheme of these humble creatures. They are not like us—machines, preordained to run down in a more or less certain period of years—but they live on indefinitely till the time when accident cuts short their career. Youth, or, rather, immaturity, they experience from time to time, but old age never—Grand Magazine.

AN INDIAN LEGEND.

How the Autumn Leaves Were Transformed Into Birds.

An Indian story that has been handed down and is still believed by many Indian tribes is one about the transformation of leaves into birds. Long years ago, when the world was young, the Great Spirit went about the earth making it beautiful. Wherever his feet touched the ground lovely trees and flowers sprang up. All summer the trees wore their short green dresses. The leaves were very happy, and they sang their sweet songs to the breeze as it passed them. One day the wind told them the time would soon come when they would have to fall from the trees and die. This made the leaves feel very bad, but they tried to be brave and to die as they could so as not to make the mother trees unhappy. But at last the time came, and they let go of the twigs and branches and fluttered to the ground. They lay perfectly quiet, not able to move except as the wind would lift them.

The Great Spirit saw them, and thought they were so lovely that he did not want to see them die, but live and be beautiful forever, so he gave to each bright leaf a pair of wings and power to fly. Then he called them his "birds."

From the red and brown leaves of the oak came the robins, and yellow birds from the yellow willow leaves, and from bright maple leaves he made the red birds. The brown leaves became wrens, sparrows, and other birds. This is why the birds love the trees and always go to them to build their nests and look for food and shade.—Kansas City Journal.

Giant of History.

Turner, the naturalist, declares that he once saw upon the coast of Brazil a race of gigantic savages whose average height was over ten feet, some individuals exceeding twelve and a half feet. M. Turner of France in his description of America, which was published in Paris in 1875, says that he was once present when the skeleton of a South American savage eleven feet high was found in a hole in the earth. The Chinese have a record of several giants between twelve and sixteen feet in height which have lived in the Flowery Kingdom within the last 300 years. Josephus mentions a Jew who was ten feet two inches, and Pliny was well acquainted with Gaius, the Arabian giant, who was nine feet nine inches in height. Coming down to modern times, we find that John Milton, who lived in the time of James I., was nine feet three inches and had a hand seventeen inches long by eight and a half broad. Murphy, one of the celebrated trio of Irish giants (Charles Byrne and O'Brien) was the other two was eight feet ten inches and O'Brien two inches taller.

Early Timekeepers.

The clepsydra, or water clock, was used at Babylon at a very early date and was introduced at Rome by Scipio Nasica about the year 158 B. C. Toothed wheels were added to it by Ctesibius about 140 B. C. Some writers aver that they were found to be in use in Britain by Caesar in the year 55 B. C. The only clock in the world is said to have been sent by Pope Paul I. to Pepin, king of France, in the year A. D.

BALLOON ASCENSIONS.

The Close of the Day Is the Best Time to Make Them.

"Did you ever know why it is that a balloon ascension at a country fair, promised for 2 o'clock in the afternoon, never occurs until about 6?" asked an expert parachute jumper. "It always happens, and the explanation generally is that the preparations for the ascension could not be made in time. This is rarely the case, for the balloonist never had any intention of going up earlier than just toward the close of day. The reason for this is that not only is an ascension at any other time fraught with a little more danger on account of the winds which usually prevail, but also because by these same winds the balloon and parachute are apt to be carried too far away, perhaps so far that injury may befall them before they can be recovered."

"The old and experienced balloonist never makes an ascension except just at sundown, because with the going down of the sun the winds subside considerably. He can go almost straight down, break a way through the clouds, and come down in the very lot from which the ascension was made."

"There is really very little danger in parachute leaping when the man who does it is experienced. The parachute must open and bring him down safely, though he will have a hair raising drop like a chunk of lead for about 100 feet, the distance usually covered before the big bag opens. Then he can guide his descent by rising or lowering this side or that in order to spill a little air and thus keep it from drifting."

"A balloon can't be guided, but a parachute with a man of experience hanging to it can be controlled as easily as a boat, for the reason that by tilting it on one side you can force it in the other direction and thus maneuver so that if it is desired you can deposit yourself on the very spot of the ascension. It is only the inexperienced men who die, or those who fear they may incline the bag too far for safety."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Deeply Disappointed.

Congressman Adams of Pennsylvania was talking about his bill for the establishment of a whipping post for wife beaters.

"Any married man who fails to support this bill," he said, "will be regarded with suspicion the rest of his life. If this bill does not become a law I will be as disappointed—I will be as disappointed—as if I were a disappointed husband."

"It was Christmas time, and a faithful and hardworking postman plowed his way through the snow and cold winds, a mail of unusual size in his pack.

"The postman ascended the spacious steps of a millionaire's residence, and in answer to his ring a manservant in rich livery appeared.

"Wait a moment, please," said the servant as he took the mail. "The mistress wishes to speak to you."

"The postman's eye brightened. It was the holiday season. He had served the mistress for many years.

"He was the final arbiter of an English Love Match.

When the child son of the Duke of Argyle bestowed his affections upon an untitled woman he felt bound to ask the old gentleman's consent. The duke answered that personally he had no objections to the match, but in view of the fact that his eldest son had espoused a daughter of the queen he thought it right to inquire her majesty's pleasure on the subject before expressing his formal approval.

For modesty, thus appealed to, observed that since the death of the prince consort she had been in the habit of consulting the Duke of Saxe-Coburg on all family affairs.

The matter was therefore referred to Duke Bismarck, who replied that since the unification of Germany he had made it a rule to ask the emperor's opinion on all important questions. The case now came before the kaiser, who decided that, as a constitutional sovereign, he was bound to ascertain the views of his prime minister.

Happily for the now anxious pair of lovers the "Iron Chancellor," who was then in office, had no wish to consult anybody and decided that the marriage might take place, and it did.

DREADED DREAMS.

They Shock the Nervous System and May Even Cause Death.

People have actually been killed by dreams. Most persons have suffered from those terrible nightmare visions in which the victim is pursued by an assassin with upraised knife or is trembling on the edge of a fearful precipice or is in some other imminent danger of a sudden and terrible death. These dreams are common enough, and nearly always the sufferer awakes, thankful and happy at his escape. But sometimes he doesn't awake. Sometimes the knife falls or the sleeper in his hallucinations plunges down the precipice. These are the dreams that kill, says the Chicago Tribune.

In cases where dreams kill there is a sort of combined action between the dream and the disease through which death is accomplished. In the first place the dream is usually the product of the disease. A person may have heart disease which never asserts itself or allows the victim in any way to know of its presence until the fact is disclosed in a frightful dream. Moreover, terrifying dreams are often the first evidence of heart disease. Then the frequent recurrence of these dreams, dealing repeated shocks to the nervous system, aggravates the disease until the heart is so weak that one more shock is sufficient to cause death.

If a person has had dreams it does not necessarily follow, however, that he has heart disease. Dreams indicating heart disease are usually of a terrifying nature and relate to death. On awakening the sufferer will notice a violent heart palpitation. Chronic pericarditis is always preceded by horrible dreams, such as that of being thrown into a lake of fire or being crushed in a railroad wreck or burned by a volcanic eruption.

The approach of insanity may also be revealed by unpleasant dreams, or insanity may be hastened by such dreams. There are many cases on record where a person has been driven insane by a dream.

Sharp tongues, like sharp knives, are apt to do a great deal of damage in this world.—Austin Statesman.

THE POWER TO PLEASE.

A Potent Factor For Success In Any Career You May Adopt.

The power to please is a tremendous asset. What can be more valuable than a personality which always attracts, never repels? It is not only valuable in business, but also in every field of life. It makes statesmen and politicians; it brings clients to the lawyer and patients to the physician; it is worth everything to the clergyman. No matter what career you enter, you cannot overestimate the importance of cultivating that charm of manner, those personal qualities, which attract people to you. They will take the place of capital or influence; they are often a substitute for a large amount of hard work.

Some men attract business, customers, clients, patients, as naturally as magnets attract particles of steel. Everything seems to point their way, for the same reason that the steel particles point toward the magnet—because they are attracted.

Such men are business magnets. Business moves toward them even when they do not apparently make half so much effort to get it as the less successful. Their friends call them "lucky dogs." But if we analyze these men closely we find that they have attractive qualities. There is usually some charm of personality about them that wins all hearts.—Success.

THE MAGICIAN'S THUMB.

It Is His Worst Enemy In Sleight of Hand Tricks.

In every sort of magic the magician's thumb is his worst enemy, says Nina Carter Marbourg in Leslie's Weekly. If he could strike off that thumb and still have his assistance when necessary he would be a happy man. In closing the hand the thumb usually bends toward the palm in advance of the fingers. In this way it many times is much in the way, and practice is necessary to get a magician's thumb in perfect training. But when he has practiced the school of magic for some time the thumb becomes so flexible that it will bend nearly to the back of the hand.

Cards are invariably the beginning of a magician's education. In handling cards the thumb is especially in the way, and this is the reason why this trickery with the pasteboards is selected for the beginner. To change one card for another in front of one's very eyes and still to have made no perceptible movement of the hand is a trick that beginners learn to perform before they have been in the school for any great length of time. This, as may be imagined, is a difficult piece of work to become proficient in, and here is just the place where determination plays a great part in success.

BISMARCK CONSENTED.

He Was the Final Arbitrator of an English Love Match.

When the child son of the Duke of Argyle bestowed his affections upon an untitled woman he felt bound to ask the old gentleman's consent. The duke answered that personally he had no objections to the match, but in view of the fact that his eldest son had espoused a daughter of the queen he thought it right to inquire her majesty's pleasure on the subject before expressing his formal approval.

For modesty, thus appealed to, observed that since the death of the prince consort she had been in the habit of consulting the Duke of Saxe-Coburg on all family affairs.

The matter was therefore referred to Duke Bismarck, who replied that since the unification of Germany he had made it a rule to ask the emperor's opinion on all important questions. The case now came before the kaiser, who decided that, as a constitutional sovereign, he was bound to ascertain the views of his prime minister.

Happily for the now anxious pair of lovers the "Iron Chancellor," who was then in office, had no wish to consult anybody and decided that the marriage might take place, and it did.

FRIDAY, Sept. 1, 1905.

SONOMA VALLEY INTERURBAN CO.

The above is the title of the company which has been incorporated to build and operate an electric railroad, creamery and other vast enterprises which will be of the greatest advantage to the residents of this valley.

The railroad will commence on the land of S. Schocken, in the City of Sonoma, then in a south-westerly direction to the California Northwestern depot; thence southerly along First St. East to Napa St.; thence westerly to Sonoma creek, along the county highway, through El Verano, Boyes' Hot Springs, Agua Caliente Springs to Glen Ellen. The road will be seven miles in length, and the actual subscription is $1000 per mile. The principal place of business will be Sonoma and the life limit of the company is fifty years.

The directors of the company are: C. T. Ryland, capitalist of San Jose and San Francisco; Oscar T. Weber, Secretary of the California Salt Co., and who is also associated with Wm. J. Dingee; F. T. Duhring, Vice-President of the Sonoma Valley Bank and a leading merchant of Sonoma; Solomon Schocken, capitalist and leading merchant of Sonoma; and the fifth director is a prominent banker.

The capital stock is $300,000, in shares of $100.

This road is for the purpose of handling the summer traffic between Sonoma, the Springs and Glen Ellen and will be the first connecting link that will put us in touch with the rest of the county. Having absorbed the Sonoma Electric Light Plant and the franchise of Messrs Schocken and Weber, the Sonoma Valley Interurban Co., is in a position to carry out large enterprises in Sonoma Valley and should receive the support and encouragement of every resident who has the interests of the valley at heart.

With such shrewd business and keen-sighted men as the above named directors at the head of the concern, the public may rest assured that the many improvements to be undertaken, will be carried out to the letter, with promptness and dispatch, and with the hearty cooperation of the residents of Sonoma Valley, the electric railroad, creamery, etc., will soon be numbered among the industries of this nature favored community.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

Word has been received by the committee in charge of the arrangements for a rally of young people in Santa Rosa, that Gen. Secretary Von Ogden Vogt, of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, of Boston, would be present and speak. This adds increased interest to the meetings and every effort will be made to secure the largest representation from the surrounding societies ever seen at a local meeting.

The big rally will be held Tuesday evening, September 19. The committee will meet this week to secure a place of meeting, arrange for the music and plan for the accommodation of visiting delegates.

FREE DANCE

P. Rossi, proprietor of the Swiss-American Hotel, El Verano, gave a free dance last Saturday evening, and guests from far and near responded to the invitation. Fine music was in attendance and delicious refreshments were served.

Professor Ferguson Takes a Position

Professor Ferguson, formerly of the Petaluma schools, has accepted a position as head of the department of commerce in the Mission High School in San Francisco. Some time ago it will be remembered that he instituted mandamus proceedings against the County Board of Education of Sonoma county to compel them to re-issue his certificate which had been withheld for alleged unprofessional conduct.

DIED IN OHIO

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Whiting of Sonoma, have received a letter from G. W. Benton, formerly of Sonoma, in which he announces the death of his wife at Mount Washington, Ohio, on August 14th. Mrs. Benton had been ailing for about ten months before the final summons came.

This sad news will be received with regret by the many friends of the Bentons in this valley.

GOOD TIME AT BOYES' HOT SPRINGS

Last Saturday evening a pleasant time was had by those who attended the social dance at Boyes' Hot Springs. The grounds were beautifully illuminated and the scene was a brilliant one. A goodly number of couples took part in the various dances, which were tripped to the melodious selections of the Pauli Orchestra, until the wee small hours. Manager Francis served splendid refreshments, and the whole affair was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE FILED

Martha H. Morton of Sonoma began an action for divorce on Monday afternoon against her husband, Martin T. Morton. The complaint specifies desertion as the cause for the divorce. Attorney J. M. Thompson represents plaintiff.

DRUIDS BANQUET

A large number of the members of the Druid Lodge of Sonoma, attended a banquet at the Swiss Hotel Sunday evening and had a very pleasant time. The dining-room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the tables were laden with many good things that met with approval of the "inner man." Many toasts were proposed and responded to and Mine Host Bacala and wife received well deserved credit for the splendid way in which the affair was handled.

ENTERTAINMENT AND FAIR

The Ladies Aid of the Congregational Church, Sonoma, are planning to hold an entertainment and fair on November 10th, 1905. Particulars later.

BAD RAILROAD ACCIDENT

Four men were killed and two others probably fatally injured in an accident on a spur of the California Northwestern a few miles north of Willits Monday afternoon.

The engine ran away and jumped the tracks, taking the men with it down to a frightful death.

Those who are dead are: Engineer E. W. Lucas, William Higgins, H. L. Stainaker and Cello Lonotti. Roy Scott and Superintendent A. A. Marks of the Northwestern Redwood Company was so badly injured that it is thought that he cannot live. Brakeman Murray was also badly hurt, but is not believed that his injuries are fatal.

It was engine 34 that Lucas was piloting at the time. It was running down a very steep grade with no cars attached and the men were either riding in the cab or on the tender. At one of the most difficult stretches of the road Lucas lost control of his machine and although the brakes were applied as strongly as possible, the engine slid a distance of over fifty feet, finallyumping the track and landing on its side against the bank with a crash.

Lucas was instantly killed being pinned between the bank and his engine. When taken out it was found that his body had been cut into four pieces. This was done by the drive wheels.

The other three—Higgins, Stainaker and Lonotti—suffered fearful agonies before succumbing to the escaping steam, which literally cooked their bodies. They, too, were caught under the engine and could not escape.

GLEN ELLEN

The weather is quite warm and some indication for rain is noticeable. Santa Rosa High School began last Monday and Glen Ellen pupils were on hand.

Jack London is rushing his barn and residence to completion.

The Calif. Brick and Pottery Co. are manufacturing a superior article of roof and drain tiles.

E. Woodward, who holds the position of contralto-tenor and mezzo-soprano in the Congregational Church choir has been painting some new work on the Poppe building the past week.

The horse of Mrs. Busch attached to a buggy became restless and ran away. Nothing serious occurred.

Mr. J. S. Philpot of Windsor will place one of his acetylene gas plants in the Poppe building.

An over indulgence in high balls and seductive cock tails, was the cause of several lively scrapes in our otherwise peaceable town.

Frank Small and family are visiting relatives in this place. Mr. Small holds the position of Express Messenger in Southern California.

THE WAR IS OVER

Representatives of both Russia and Japan are now engaged at Portsmouth, N. El Verano Man Writes About Proposed Farm

A resident of El Verano had the following letter in the Sacramento Union of a recent date:

To the Editor—A few days ago there was a meeting at Sacramento of the commission selected to look out for the interests of the farmers of the State in the selection of their farm.

From the tone of the expressions of the professors after the meeting, looking at it from the standpoint of the farmer, the selection will not be made in the interests of the farmers of the State, but plainly in the interests of the faculty at Berkeley to get hold of the $150,000 and a large amount more each year thereafter to enlarge their present large laboratories, to keep a lot more professors to look after the moon to see that she keeps in her regular course—that the farmer may do his plowing by moonlight, I suppose.

I had supposed this $150,000 was set aside to buy a farm, to put men at the head of it capable and willing to educate the honorable and humble farmer in the way to make use of his land to the best advantage in all branches of agriculture, horticulture, viticulture, dairying, stock raising, etc., in all their branches, and not to fit up laboratories, etc., for the benefit of a lot of scientists who wish to spend the money that the farmer is working hard for to earn to pay his taxes and try to educate his children in the common schools.

I think this money should be spent in buying a farm, and it should be a farm of not less than 2000 to 3000 acres, with plenty of water so that the farm can have a good dairy and stock raising portion with a man at the head of that part capable of educating any and all that call on him; then a good vineyard and wine cellar, with the very best man obtainable at the head of that, and so on with every branch, and not fit up a laboratory at Berkeley that only highly educated scientific men can enter and know anything of what they see. An experimental farm of this farming kind, carried on by farmers of the highest order, would do great and everlasting good; but if it is to be put in laboratory farming, I, for one, think that the $150,000 had better be put back into the general treasury, to be appropriated to the university if the Legislature wishes it so, and not let the blame fall on the shoulders of the farmers for the waste of money.

Buy a farm with this money—one that is worthy of California and that will be a pleasure to show to the thousands that will come from all over the world to see it, and have it so you can show them a herd of cattle, sheep and hogs that you are proud of, and a vineyard and wine cellar that will do credit to California and show the products of the farm in a general way of everything that makes home happy and profitable—not a farm that you can raise one thing better than anybody else, but a diversified farming that can be carried on either on a large or small scale.

Such farms can be found in the beautiful valleys along the coast, where water can be had in quantities to make the farm beautiful and profitable. Then when these good farmers find a new pest or want to find something to do away with any pest, the university will have a place to go and make its experiments, and a hundred miles more or less don't cut any figure.

Have this farm entirely away and a separate institution from the University of California, where our humble farmer boys can go and not have to go through the fraternities and spend a fortune before they can get on the ground floor of what they went there to learn; and when the boy did get on the ground floor, if he had the money, he would probably be contaminated and so far gone that he would never learn farming, but fetch up in a road-side, like most of the fraternity boys.

The Editor Was Saddened

The editor of an exchange lived in a house half way between a church and a dance hall. One night there was a meeting at the church and a dance at the hall, and the editor sat on the veranda and took in the situation, jotting down the following which he heard:

"Let us pray—all salute—we beseech thee—join hands and—draw near—circle to the left—listen to us—first four forward and back—as we—all promenade—kneel before and—balance all—present our petition—grand right and left—for Christ's sake—seat your partners."

The editor was saddened at the degeneracy of the town and went and joined the football club.

Calsal

Cures Rheumatism

Read what Mr. Jack Kennedy has to say about Calsal.

Gentlemen—I have had rheumatism for years, was compelled to remain in bed for weeks at a time, could not move my limbs or arms, have tried many Springs, and in fact have tried everything, without success, until I came across Calsal thro a friend of mine that had been cured by carrying the same. I purchased two sacks and wore them as directed, nearest the pain, and I must say after wearing the sacks for one week I felt better, and now I am absolutely cured, have no pain whatsoever. I believe Calsal is the greatest cure for rheumatism. I would not be without it.

MINERS BACK WITH MANY NUGGETS

C. F. Anderson and G. Cornelius, two veteran mining men from the Klondike, arrived in San Francisco from Nome, bringing with them, besides a large quantity of gold nuggets, many wild beasts skins, trophies of their rifles while camping and sleighing in the furthest wilds of Alaska. Among them was the skin of a gigantic polar bear, that measured twelve feet from nose to tail and eight feet across the width of the hide. It is worth fully $300, but Anderson, who shot the bear for food for his dogs on the shore near Icy Cape, says that money could not buy it from him. He intends to have it mounted. The two prospectors staked out valuable claims to which they will return in the fall.

Did ever a woman experience true happiness until she bent over her rosy cheeks, sleeping baby, tired of play and forgetful of toys? Never. True happiness for a childless woman is nature's most emphatic impossibility. The world teems with otherwise happy wedded couples that only need the link of a babe's divided caresses to unite them in eternal happiness through all eternity. Any woman may assure herself of happy wifehood, long life, love, and the great blessing of motherhood, who will take proper care of her womanly self, and resort to the right remedy for weakness and disease of the delicate organs peculiar to her sex. The best of all-known remedies for the special weaknesses and diseases from which women suffer is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the organs that bear the burdens of motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. Taken during the expectant period it banishes the neural discomforts and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It assures a robust new-born and an ample supply of natural nourishment. All good druggists sell it. "A year ago I was taken sick and tried the three doctors in our town," writes Mrs. Archie Gordon, of Oak Street, Broomfield, New Jersey. "They did not help me any. One said I had one thing, another said I had something else, and the last one told me he could not tell just what was the matter with me, but advised me to go to a hospital. I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and about the case of a lady in Kansas, very much like my own. I suffered so, could hardly endure to have any one walk across the floor, as the least jar hurt me. Sent to our drug store and got a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and when I had taken one bottle began to feel better. I took five and a half bottles, and to-day I can work all day and feel no bad results. None of my neighbors thought a year ago that I would be here to-day to write anything, but I say, every woman who suffers should never give up until Dr. Pierce's medicines have been given a fair trial."

ACCEPTANCE OF CALL

To the Members of the Congregational Church of Sonoma,
Dear Brethren—The call which you extended to me last Sunday by unanimous vote has received my earnest and prayerful consideration. I heartily appreciate the confidence you thus express in choosing me to be your spiritual leader, the fact of the call is an indication of the divine will; for when a christian church is united in any one thing, the probability is that that union has been brought about by the divine spirit. In this hope and belief I accept the call to be your pastor as God's call to me by your voice. I rely upon your hearty co-operation for the uplifting of the church, and for service for God and for mankind. I trust you, I believe in you. We will work together; and the dear Lord will give us that kind of success which shall stand the scrutiny of the Last Day. I will begin service as your pastor, Sept. 17th, and I ask the co-operation of all the church and all the congregation, the men and women, the young people, the boys and girls, all those who in any way belong to this fellowship. "And may the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting Covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well pleasing in his sight through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever, Amen."

Fraternalty Yours,
CHARLES CHESTER CRAGIN

Lost In The Jungles

Etienne Messager, a San Francisco merchant, spending a vacation at Sea View, took his lunch last Saturday morning and sallied forth to have some hunting. He got lost in the woods and did not return home in the evening, much to the alarm of the Sea View people and his friends. Supervisor I. J. Button, Constable Eckert and Postmaster Morgan headed a searching party and all day Sunday they searched in vain. Early Monday morning they started out again and found Mr. Messager in the woods. He was somewhat exhausted from want of food and water and had almost given up hope of being rescued. All he had to eat was the lunch he put in his pocket on Saturday morning.

TWO GRAND BALLS

DEADLY DISEASE AMONG CATTLE

Another deadly contagious disease has broken out among the cattle in Napa county. The animals on a number of ranches have been attacked and in most cases death ensues in a few minutes after the beast has been stricken. This has created considerable excitement among stockmen.

HIGH CLASS INSTITUTION

Of all the business colleges in the West there is none better than Santa Rosa Business College located at Santa Rosa, California. Prof. J. S. Sweet, the President of the college, is one of the leading educators and thinkers of the Pacific Coast. He had many years of successful experience in grammar, high and normal school work before founding this institution at the county seat, nearly fourteen years ago. From a small beginning the Santa Rosa Business College has by honest work and good results built itself up to the present large proportions and stands high in public estimation. A diploma of graduation from Santa Rosa Business College is a recommendation that means something and starts every young lady or gentleman on a successful business career. Last year one hundred and fifty students, mainly from California but many from other parts of the Union, enrolled themselves in the Santa Rosa Business College. Hundreds of its graduates are now holding responsible positions in this and other states in the Union.

When Sonoma County has a business college of international reputation and gives a better education than any similar institution elsewhere, common sense as well as one's own best interests demands that the home institution should have the preference. Students may enter at any time.

LETTER FROM GLEN ELLEN

The summer people have mostly gone with the summer months, and September finds our population reduced to its normal state. None are so sadly missed and regretted as Mr. and Mrs. Gummer, who had become prime favorites in the community.

The lecture by Mr. Edward B. Payne, delivered on Friday last, was heard by a very attentive and appreciative audience. His style is easy and fluent, and was enlivened by a number of amusing anecdotes and similes illustrative of his subject. We hope this will not be the last time we shall have the pleasure of hearing him lecture.

On Saturday last the Women's Improvement Club were entertained by Mrs. A. E. Gaige and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. Gaige, at the home of the former. The refreshment table was set in the flower garden under the protecting shade of an immense grape arbor, where the green clusters peeping through the leaves made one wish it were a little later in the season. These all frescoed feasts seem to appeal to one, as no indoor banquet ever does, especially when the day is an ideal one, as was Saturday. Needless to say that everyone enjoyed the delicious salads, coffee and other dainties, as only hungry club members can, when wearied by the discussion of weighty matters. The place cards were dainty and unique, each one having a motto or quotation supposed to be appropriate to the individual. On Sept. 9th the club is invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Trowbridge and her daughter, Mrs. Haskell.

The bridge over Sonoma Creek is undergoing much needed repairs, as it contained many pitfalls for man and beast. This work, with the new buildings in course of construction, makes the town look like there's something doing. Now that the busy season is over, Miss Ella Monahan of the Mervyn Hotel, has gone away on a vacation. Miss Pearl Allen spent last Thursday in Vallejo, where she attended the annual party of the yacht club.

A BAD FALL

Middleton Glaister met with what might have been a serious accident, on Saturday last. While working on the roof of a new building, he slipped and fell a distance of fifteen feet, dislocating some of the bones in his ankle. He is now under the care of Dr. Byron, and is doing as well as could be expected, but it will be some time before he will be able to resume work.

A PLEASANT SOCIAL

An enjoyable and profitable evening was spent last Friday at the M. E. Church here. The affair was under the auspices of the Union C. E. Society, and consisted of an informal program. Mrs. (Rev.) Rowe and Mr. Cunningham rendered some fine vocal solos and games proved a large part of the entertainment. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served.

SPECIAL OFFER OF
The University Society
Academy of Science, S. F., of
The New Standard Encyclopedia
The product of American scholarship and American learning. A record of America's great achievements. A work vibrating with American spirit, American enterprise and American progress. Complete in twelve large volumes, handsomely bound. American in construction and universal in scope. A comprehensive Library in itself covering all departments of human knowledge and every domain of human endeavor.
Contains 55,000 articles, 8,500 pages, 104 full page maps, in color—and all of them double page maps. These maps constitute a complete atlas of the world; 2,000 illustrations, comprising the best colored plates to be had.
The contributors to the magnificent work we have such
THEODORE ROOSEVELT, President of the U. S.
SETH LOWE, President Columbia University.
DAVID STARR JORDAN, Stanford University.
BENJ. IDE WHEELER, University of California.
JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.
GEO. B. CORTELYOU, Postmaster General.
And two hundred more of such note, and all articles in this Encyclopedia by contributors are signed by them.
We keep the work up to date for three years FREE.
